

Resources gathered from Spring 2005 Captivate Workshop Eric Larson and Terry Ross

Slides for Captivate Workshop, April 12, 2005

https://mywebspace.wisc.edu/ewlarson/web/captivate_demo/

Best Practices

- ❖ TuscWog's Web site: <http://www.library.wisc.edu/instruction/tuscwog-1/>
UW Libraries working group for tutorials using screen capture. They maintain a document of best practices for creating university wide tutorials.

Accessibility

- ❖ Macromedia on Captivate Accessibility:
<http://www.macromedia.com/macromedia/accessibility/features/captivate/>
Instructions and an FAQ for making your movies accessible via Captivate's software interface.
- ❖ DoIT's Accessibility pages: <http://www.doit.wisc.edu/accessibility/>
- ❖ Uncle Sam's 508 site: <http://www.section508.gov>

Usability

- ❖ Uncle Sam's usability site: <http://usability.gov>

Help with Captivate – Forums, tutorials

- ❖ Macromedia DevNet: <http://www.macromedia.com/devnet/captivate/>
Online forum for posting questions, receiving assistance from Captivate professionals. Great knowledgebase.
- ❖ Macromedia Online Forums: <http://www.macromedia.com/support/forums/>
Find Captivate on list of forums at link above. Post questions and receive answers from Community Team Leaders and fellow Captivate users when you need advice. Friendly and helpful source.
- ❖ Creating Captivate Movies (Part 1): <http://www.communitymx.com/abstract.cfm?cid=A8847>
Free 3-part tutorial from CommunityMX. Excellent presentations which include screen shots, tips and basic info. Excerpted from Tom Green's Captivate Visual QuickStart Guide published by PeachPit Press.

General

- ❖ BrowserNews.com: http://www.upsdell.com/BrowserNews/stat_trends.htm
The place to get stats on current platforms, browsers, and resolutions usage to help answer the question "Who am I developing for?"
- ❖ Innovative Internet Applications in Libraries: <http://www.wiltonlibrary.org/innovate.html>

Collection of terrific links to various library projects have incorporated online learning. Includes general resources for development issues, information and news.